Lidia de Almeida Voumard

As founding member and immediate past President of the Angolan College of Dermatology and Venereology (CADV), I fostered the development and promotion of the discipline in Angola.

As immediate past head of the University Department of Dermatology of the Luanda Agostinho Neto University, and former Chief of the Dermatology Service of the Américo Boavida Hospital, I dedicated myself to train residents and expand dermatology services in our country.

I am now promoting the collaboration with international organizations such as ILDS and ISD, to support continuous learning and exchange of experience between our dermatologists and those from other countries.
